Liability for Contents

As a service provider, we are responsible for our own content on these pages in accordance with general law. This also covers third-party content that we manifestly adopt as our own.

In respect of the transmission or storage of third-party information, service providers benefit from exemptions from liability under the German Digital Services Act (Digitale-Dienste-Gesetz, DDG) in conjunction with Articles 4 to 8 of the EU Digital Services Act (Regulation (EU) 2022/2065). Accordingly, we are not obliged to monitor transmitted or stored third-party information, or to seek facts or circumstances indicating illegal activity.

Obligations to remove information or to block its use under general law on the basis of official or judicial orders remain unaffected by these exemptions from liability (Section 8(4) DDG). Liability for third-party content can only be considered from the point in time at which we obtain knowledge of a specific infringement of the law. Should we become aware of any such infringements, we will remove or block the content concerned without delay.

Liability for Links

Our offer includes links to external third-party websites. We have no influence on the content of those websites and therefore cannot accept any liability for it. Providers or administrators of linked websites are always responsible for their own contents.

The linked websites had been checked for possible violations of law at the time of the establishment of the link. Illegal contents were not detected at the time of the linking. A permanent monitoring of the contents of linked websites cannot be imposed without reasonable indications that there has been a violation of law. Should we become aware of any infringements, we will remove such links without delay.

Copyright

Contents and compilations published on these websites by the providers are subject to German copyright laws. Reproduction, editing, distribution as well as the use of any kind outside the scope of the copyright law require a written permission of the author or originator. Downloads and copies of these websites are permitted for private use only.

Copyright laws of third parties are respected as long as the contents on these websites do not originate from the provider. Contributions of third parties on this site are indicated as such. However, if you notice any violations of copyright law, please inform us. Such contents will be removed immediately.
